

CONTENTS – SUSTAINED IMPROVEMENT IN NURSING QUALITY: HOSPITAL PERFORMANCE ON NDNQI INDICATORS, 2007–2008 (2009)

Nancy Dunton, PhD & Isis Montalvo, RN, MS, MBA, Editors

Making the Connection Between RN Satisfaction and RN Retention

Using NDNQI's RN Satisfaction Survey Results to Track Satisfaction with Appropriateness of Patient Assignments

Hospital Acquired Pressure Ulcers

Point-of-Care Education Reduces Pressure Ulcer Rates in the ICU

Utilizing a Multifaceted Approach to Improving Nosocomial Pressure Ulcers

Patient Falls

Achieving Sustained Reduction in Patient Falls

Fall Reduction Strategies: Using a Rapid Cycle FOCUS-PDSA Process to Reduce Patient Falls

Afterword

The Importance of Comparing the Costs and Effects of Quality Improvement

Appendix A. National Database of Nursing Quality Indicators

Appendix B. National Quality Forum Indicators

Index

Introduction

Achieving Sustained Improvements in the Nursing Work Environment, Nursing Workforce Characteristics, and Patient Outcomes

Education and Certification

Strategies to Support the Advancement of Nursing Educational Levels

Promoting Specialty Certifications among Staff Nurses

RN Job Satisfaction

Using a Shared Governance Model to Improve Nurse Job Satisfaction

Sustained Improvement in RN Satisfaction Measures: "Overall Had a Good Day" as an Indicator of a Positive Nurse Environment

Using Best Practices to Improve RN Satisfaction

Improving RNs' Rating of "Overall Had a Good Day"

Redesigning Unit Orientation Improves Satisfaction for Nurses and Patients